

Tiger's weekly newsletter

16.1.20

This week we have continued reading Aliens Love Underpants. The children found alien eggs and a note from the aliens and have been busy writing letters back to them. They have made some rockets and practised the fringing technique needed when joining tubes to boxes. The children have written alien words or practised writing sentences about the story.

In maths the children have been learning their teen numbers. They have learned that the one (first digit) in a teen number represents a group of ten and have matched groups objects to numicon and numerals.

If you have letters or slips to return to school, please give them to the adult on the door or put them in your child's hand so they can hand them in. We check book bags weekly but staff do not have time to check book bags daily. Your child's reading book will be changed at least once a week but please send them in with their book in their hand if it needs changing more frequently. If you want to read home books with your child in addition to their school book please do, but please ensure they do read at least some pages from their school books, as they are carefully chosen to match the sounds they are learning in phonics.

We are in need of some really big cardboard boxes (ones that children can fit inside). If you can get any from work – please send them in to school ASAP.
