

Tiger's weekly newsletter

14.11.19

This week we read the story of Stanley's Stick. We also wrote a thank you letter to the Cheeky Elf for the maps he sent us. We are enjoying using our plan, do, challenge and review maps and have been busy exploring different areas this week. Our challenges this week have included writing thank you cards, making models with boxes or clay, investigating whether objects would float or sink and creating our own repeating patterns.

Thank you to those of you who have encouraged your child to dress and undress themselves at home. Could we also ask that you let them practise putting their clothes the right way out and fastening their own coats. It makes PE and going out to play much easier for the children and the adults.

Could we also ask that toys and key rings are not brought into school and are not added to book bags and lunch boxes. This has caused problems with book bags not fitting in drawers and with children arguing or being distracted by them.

Thank you to those of you who have signed up for our stay and play sessions next week. We still have some places available on Wednesday.
